

Signs a Child is Being Alienated

- Refusing to see you or trying to limit contact
- Sudden rejection of previously loved family members on your side of the family
- Change in their behaviour such as ignoring your authority and refusing to comply with your rules
- Becoming withdrawn and reluctant to talk to you
- Asking you not to attend events such as their football match or dance show
- Repeating or making allegations against you which have potentially come from the other parent
- Having knowledge of financial issues or court proceedings indicating that they may be involved in adult discussions.

WWW.PAPAORG.CO.UK